Bourbon County Farm OF 122 ACRES

SATURDAY, FEB. 4th 10 A. M.

We are authorized by the owner, Mrs. Nannie Clay Howard, to sell her farm of 122 acres, more or less, with improvements thereon, located on the Escondida pike, about 5 1-2 miles from Paris, and about 1-2 mile from Escondida Station, on the L. & N. R. R.

The improvements consist of a good tenant house of four rooms, 8 acre tobacco barn, practically new, and other out-buildings.

Abundance of water for man and beast, fencing extra good.

About 80 acres of the farm is in old bluegrass sod, and about 45 acres in a high state of cultivation.

The farm lays well and there is no better producing land in the county, and any one in the market for a paying proposition, such as this undoubtedly is, should not overlook this opportuity to buy.

BLUE GRASS SEED GROWERS ORGANIZE

Initial steps toward formation of a co-operative marketing association of the blue grass producers of Kentucky were taken at a mass meeting of the growers, held in the courthouse at Winchester, last week at which time a committee was appointed to draft a contract suitable for the use of the proposed organization, this committee to report back to the growers at a meeting to be called at some date in the near

About thirty-five growers, representing the blue grass seed producers of six Central Kentucky counties, were present at the session. The personnel of the committee named at the meeting follows: Samuel Clay, William and Warren Rogers, Bourbon county; Edward Prewitt and Chenault Woodford, Montgomery; Rhodes Estill, B. E. Allen and Dave Prewitt, Fayette; Lewis Neal and T. J. Prewitt, Madison; Ben Goff, Joe Lindsay and T. W Brock, Clerk.

This committe is expected to get in touch with the Bureau of Market, of the Kentucky Experiment Station, and secure data relative to the possibilities of the plan, and also to confer with Aaron Sapiro California marketing expert, with regard to the compilation and arrangement of the contracts.

The main aim of the proposed association, according to local growers who are interested, will be an effort to stabilize the market. It is pointed out that as the crop of blue gras: is one that is subject to a degree of variance insofar as production i concerned and that the great need of the producer is for an organization that will bring the stablization of the market.

LAUNCH PLANE FROM WARSHIP

Navy Has Designed One on Turntable Which Can Be Operated on Any Snip.

INGENIOUSLY SIMPLE DEVICE

Airplane May Be Launched Into Wind Without Regard to Direction Battleship Is Headed-Compressed Air Is Used.

Washington.—The navy has been iaunching airplanes from the decks of battleships for several years, but it has hitherto been necessary always to maneuver the battleship so as to liaunch the airplane directly into the wind. This manifestiy, would be impossible in actual battle. So the United States Navy department has just developed a system whereby an airplane may be catapulted into the wind without regard to the direction the battleship is headed.

The Scientific American gives a complete description of this ingeniously simple device, which is now being shown at the Phlladelphia navy yard. Following is the article, slightly condensed:

"To permit the launching of airplanes from a battleship or other war vessei the catapult has been resorted to, and a special type of catapult has ; been developed which has been designated a turntable catapult because the catapult mechanism proper is mounted on a turntable so that it can be pointed into the wind when jaunching a plane.

"One catapult of this type could be installed on every battieship and could launch when needed a fighting airplane, so that a fleet of battieships would be able on the approach of hostile bombing airplanes to send into the air instantiy a large number of fighting planes to shoot them down before the bombing attack could be developed. This is the real answer to the threat of the bombing piane, which was demonstrated in so spectacuiar a manner by the recent bombing from the air of the ex-German warships.

"In the bombing attacks of these ex-German warships it was shown that bombs dropped from the air could do material damage to warships which did not defend themselves. Obviously a warship can defend itself by anti-aircraft gunfire, but never by attack in the air. The weapons of offense and defense in Besides, every hair shows new life, the history of naval warfare have vigor, brightness, more color and always developed step by step and the history of naval warfare have the development of the heavy bombing airplane is being met by this deveiopment of a catapuit which will shoot fast combat planes from the decks of battleships into the ulr to

Developed in Ten Years.

"The catapult of this particular type is new, but the elements are the result of navy catapult development initiated in 1911 by Capt. Washington I. Chambers, at that time in charge of naval aviation experiments. The first flight was made Nov. 12, 1912. by Commander, then Lieutenaut, T. G. Ellyson in a Curtiss scaptane from a catapuit.

"The matter was resumed in 1915 when the development of naval seaplanes had proceeded to such a point that it was clear to the Navy it would be desirable to take aircraft to sea. A new design of catapult, based on experience with the first one, was installed on the stern of the armored cruiser North Carolina and successful flights were made. The North Carolina installation proved so reliable that similar catapults were installed on the armored cruisers Seattie and Huntington, and during the early winter of 1916 successful flights were made from these cruisers.

"At the time the United States entered the war the principal naval effort was anti-submarine in its object and the convoy of shipping. Aircraft were not needed aboard these cruisers for this purpose, and the catapults were removed. After the armistice, the catapult problem was again taken up and a catapult, similar to the North Carolina design, which had been in use at Pensecoia for training aviators while mounted on a coal barge, was brought to Washington and further tests and investigations made. "The old catapults, such as were used on the North Carolina, consisted of a track along which a carriage was propelled by a compressed air cylinder. The airplane was mounted on this carriage, and as the carriage speeded up it released the sirplane at the end of its run, allowing it to fly into the air. The track for this catapult was mounted along the centerline of the ship, and since it was necessary to launch the airplane direct into the relative wind, it was necessary for the ship to set herself on such a course that the wind blew in the direcflon of the catapult track. "This manenver, while entirely feasible, necessitated the ship turning out of formation, or heading upon some course which might prove, very disadvantageous. The turntable catapult obviates this, and is relatively small and compact.

Compressed Air Used.

"The turntable catapuit consists of a bridge-like structure mounted on a turntable upon which there is the usual car which carries the airplane. and this car is propelled by compressed air. Frequent tests have demonstrated that it is possible to iaunch by such a mechanism any, of the types of airplane or sea, lane which would be carried upon a battleship.

"The problem of launching an airplane in a shore run by means of the catapuit depel ds upon severai factors. The first and primary one is, of course, that at the end of the run the catapult should have given the plane a speed such that when the plane is released from the car the wings will lift it into the air and flight has begun. This requires that the launching velocity that he somewhat in excess of the minimum flying speed of the plane. Second it is necessary while the pla e s being brought up to this flying speed that the plane be held securely to the launching carriage in order that it will not leave the track too soo. . I hally, it is necessary that the acceleration of launching shall not be so great or so violent as to injure the pilot, who must ride in the place and preserve all his senses aler. In order to take charge as soon as he is released at the end of the run.

"Under many conditions the seaplane in its present state of development is entirely practical, although in very rough weather a landing upon the sea is likely to mean the damage If not the loss of the seaplane, although it is to be expected that the aviator can be rescued. The conditlons of the weather, however, are not believed to offer any inconvenience to launching by means of the catapult. and in time of war the commander in chief will iaunch his planes in the air where they may accomplish their mission regardless of whether or not the planes may be salvaged intact upon their landing."

Federal Law Needed.

In summing up the development of aviation in 1921 the Scientific Ameri-

"The outstanding fact in American aeronautics is that the United States is still awalting the passage of a federal law for the licensing of pilots, the inspection of machines and the general encouragement and control of the industry. As matters stand, any man is at liberty to buy or build an inferior machine, take up passengers at so much a head, and kill both them and himself (as not infrequently happens) without a word of official protest. Thus, the art is discredited and the public discouraged. If aeronautics is not illegal, it is at best nonlawfui and will remain so until congress does its duty. While foreign governments are encouraging aviation, commerciai progress in the United States is due entirely to the unaided efforts of the manufacturer and the individual inventor. All honor to them.

"Some truly 'remarkable records have marked the efforts of the past week. In France, Sadi Leconte in training for the Deutsch cup contests, achieved a speed of 2061/2 miles an hour in a bipiane, and came pretty close to that mark in the race itself. This was for a short distance, stralght-

"The record over a 150-mile closed circuit was gained in the Puiltzer trophy by Bert Acosta in a Curtis Navy racer, when he covered the distance at an average speed of 176.7 miles per hour.

"Another startling feat was that of Lleut. John A. Macready, who on September 28, rising from McCook field. Dayton, Q., attained a height of 40.008 feet. He used electrically heated clothing, the oxygen tank, and the gas turbine supercharger. His La Pere biplane was the same in which Schroeder climbed to 38,180 feet in the preceding year.

All Metal Monoplane in Favor.

"This all-metal monoplane continues to gain favor, and its performance is characterized by a remarkable low gas consumption, due, of course largely to its excellent motor. There has been a remarkable revivai of interest in the monoplane as a good type for moderate speeds. The thickness of wing which is necessitated by internal bracing is unsuitable for The highest speeds. Leconte used a bipiane with the characteristic thin wings of him, the modern racing machine.

"Multiple engines, so coupled up as to be canable of being run independently, are growing in favor. Martin and Gallaudet, among American designers, have secured excellent results with this arrangement. Regular airplane passenger service, running on schedule, has made progress, slow, it may he, but encouraging.

"Abroad, the French and British are still maintaining their London-Paris routes; other services in Europe have been running consistently, and new routes have been established during the year. On this side of the water we have seen the inauguration of the Key West to Havana and other passenger-carrying services. The air mail functioned with a regularity which should encourage congress greatly to enlarge its scope.

"Mention should be made of the Petroczy helicopter, which, in tests, lifted itself to a height of 160 feet, It weighs 2,900 pounds and is held captive for observation purposes, taking the place of the vulnerable bal-

"The prospects of successful dirigil ble passenger service have undoubtedly been set back somewhat by the offer of the British government to give away its fleet of six dirigibles, coupled with the failure of any private company to accept the gift, and by the Aragic loss of the latest ship 'ZR-2.'"

NEGROES MOVE NORTH

Census Bureau Report Places Number at 720,794...

Counter Movement Back to Southern States Also is Snown-47,223 Negroes Born in North Migrate to the South.

Washington.—The total number of negroes reported as born in southern states and living in the North and West had increased from 440,534 in 1910 to 780,794 In 1920, the census bureau announced in a special report on negro migration based on returns of the last census. The southern boundaries of New Jersey, Penusylvania, Ohlo, Indiana, Illinois, Missourl and Kansus were taken as the dividing line between the North and South for the purposes

Of the 10,381,309 negroes enumerated in the last census, there were 38,575 for whom no state of birth was reported. The 780,794 southern-born negroes shown to have migrated to the North or West constituted 8.1 per cent of the total of 9,006,943 negroes born in the southern section. The percentage of this migration for the preceding decade was not shown.

Against this migration from the South to the North and West, of the total of 741,791 reported in the last census as born in states of the latter region, 47.223, or 6.4 per cent, were living in the South. Thus the proportion of southern-born negroes who migrated to the North or West, according to the report, was only about one-fourth larger than the proportion of those born in the latter region who migrated to the South.

"While it is impossible to calculate exactly the extent of negro migration from the South during the decade ended with 1920," the census report sald, "the available data indicates that approximately 400,000, or somewhat more than half of the 733,571 survivors of the net negro migration from the South to the North and West prior to January 1, 1920, left the South subsequently to April 15, 1910."

"Although migration to the North and West has not taken place among the far southern negroes to the same extent, relatively to their total numbers, as among the negroes in the northern part of the South, there was, nevertheless, a pronounced increase in such migration from the Far South during the past decade."

As examples of this gain, the report cited increases in the migration of negroes from southern states to Pennisylvania from 1910 to 1920 as follows: Georgia, 1,578 to 16,196; South Caroiina, 2,115 to 11,624; Florida, 393 to 5,-The migration from Alal Ohlo increased from 781 to 17,588; from Mississippi to Illinois, 4,612 to 19,485; Texas to Missourl, 1,907 to 4,-

35.000 "VAGS" IN NEW YORK

Very Few Former Service Men Are Among Migratory Army of the Homeless.

New York .- There are, according to a conservative estimate, 35,000 homeless men in this city today. Since 1914 the average age of these men has dropped from forty-seven to thirtytwo, and many of them are mere youths. Roy P. Gates, member-of the national committee on vagrancy, stamped as incorrect a report published in a San Francisco newspaper under a New York date line, that New York's homeless are drifting to the Pacific coast because they have been ordered by the police to find jobs or get out of town.

If there has been an influx of homeless men and panhandlers to the cities of the west coast it is a sign only of a condition which is general, says Mr. Gates.

Few ex-service men are among the migratory army of the homeless. Mr. Gates said that the lowest type of destitute man is the one who begs alms on the street, and that the prac-. tlee of giving him money is a bud one, since it encourages him. The better plan is to direct him to some reputable charitable agency which can help

Bank Robbed Often.

Shipshewana, Ind.—The Farmers' State bank here was rebbed of $15,000 in currency and Liberty bonds early the other day. The safe had been opened with the aid of an acetylene torch. Officials said the igss was covered by insurance. Local authorities believe three men who came here late in the day in an automobile committed the robbery. It was the ninth time the bank had been robbed in 20 years and the third time this year. Shipshewana is located ten miles west of Lagrange.

His Luck Is Out When Tadpoles Hatch in Milk

Nairobl. Africa. - A native charged in the resident magistrate's court here with milk adulteration strenuously denied the allegation.

(tf)

In the temporary absence of experts he might have been acquitted, but his luck was dead out, for during the course of the trial a family of tadpoles hatched out in the milk.

He was sent to jail for a month without the option.

MARKET REPORT ON BUTTER AND EGGS FOR THIS WEEK.

Further decline in butter markets has been the important fact during the week. The decline is primarily due to large increase in domestic production and importations of foreign proper position. January 1, 1922-904,000 cases as compared with January 1, 1921-408,000 cases. Excess, 496,000 cases.

Weather conditions generally have been favorable for egg production and large supplies of fresh eggs have been available on all markets, resulting in lower prices in the producing and consuming centers and entailing a severe loss on holders of storage

There has been an ample supply of poultry marketed during the week. Last year's young roosters are not now as desirable as earlier in the season, and are selling at lower prices.

Fowl are in lighter supply and no doubt, many producers are holding them back on account of the increased egg production.

FRANCE NOW HAS ANOTHER "KENTUCKY PRINCESS"

Announcement has been made of the birth of a daughter, Marie Louise Olga, to Prince and Princess Christian of Hesse at their residence in Paris, No. 4 Rue de Bresbourg.

The Princess Christian was formerly Miss Elizabeth Reid Rogers, of Mt. Sterling, and well-known here. She was married to the Prince in Trinity church in Berlin, January 14, 1915. He is head of the Phillippstahl-Barchfeld branch of an old family of Hesse. The little Princess is the second daughter.

Mr. Rogers was formerly consulgeneral of the Isthmian Canal Commission and connected with the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. His daughter's marriage was the result of a romance that began in Washington in 1913 when she was the leader of a circle of society women interested in athletics and was the youngest and best fencer in the National Capital.

The Rogers family is well-known in Paris and Bourbon county. R. Reid Rogers is, as his full name, Richard Reid Rogers, implies, a namesake of the late Judge Richard Reid, prominent jurist of Mt. Sterling. He owns a fine farm on the Cynthiana pike, near Paris, and has been a frequent visitor here.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

The Chinook Jargon.

The Chinook jargon, the prevalent means of communication in pioneer days between traders of all nations and the Indians, is still heard in the northwest when old settlers meet in reunion or at pioneer picnics. The jargon is said to date back to the early part of the Eighteenth century when English and Spanish navigators adopted certain vowels and consonants to convey their meaning fo the Indians. The dialect grew in the course of the years, until finally words were evolved to express almost every idea that
